SALZBURG WEILL CORNELL SEMINARS OF THE OPEN MEDICAL INSTITUTE (OMI)

In 1993, physicians from Weill Medical College of Cornell University enthusiastically agreed to share their knowledge and expertise with young colleagues from the former communist world. What began with one Salzburg Weill Cornell Seminar evolved into the Open Medical Institute, which organizes 40 seminars, 150 observerships and 20 in-country symposia each year.

Faculty members from Weill Cornell Medical College (NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital, The Hospital for Special Surgery, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center), The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Cleveland Clinic and Duke University Medical Center provide the academic leadership for this unique postgraduate educational program.

20,000 doctors from Central and Eastern Europe, Central Asia, Russia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America have participated, and significantly, the overwhelming majority have remained in their country of origin, thereby effecting lasting brain gain.

The Open Medical Institute operates under the auspices of The American Austrian Foundation with funding from the Open Society Foundations, the Austrian Ministry of Science, Research, and Economy and other donors. Each year members of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra perform a benefit concert to support this initiative. The best musicians, like the best physicians share their time and talent to raise funds and awareness for this unique program.

Good health is essential for sustainable development and building resilient societies. By focusing on clinical education, and offering short-term fellowships, we ensure that doctors from countries in transition can update their skills, and implement what they have learned immediately upon returning home. Our dedicated faculty, all of whom serve pro bono, continue to serve as mentors, helping whenever needed.

Despite globalization, medical care is local. Through the Salzburg Weill Cornell Seminars of the Open Medical Institute, for more than twenty years highly qualified clinicians from resource-poor societies gained access to state of the art medical education, significantly improving the quality of healthcare in their countries and sharing this knowledge with the next generation of doctors for the benefit of their patients.

OUR MISSION

- M INIMIZE brain drain
- P ROMOTE brain gain
- A CCESS to state-of-the-art medical education and training
